Institutional Advantage, the Leadership of the Party, Focus on Doing Major Events

1. Introduction

The Fourth Plenary Session of the 19th Central Committee of the Party clearly pointed out that the socialist system with Chinese characteristics has 13 significant advantages. The outbreak of the new crown epidemic has given us a first-hand experience of the advantages of the socialist system: First, the centralized and unified leadership of the Communist Party of China. The time point for the outbreak of the new crown epidemic is quite special. During the Chinese New Year, there is a large flow of people and frequent crowds; this makes the prevention and control of the epidemic difficult. After the Chinese Communist Party predicts the scale of the epidemic, the Central Committee of the Communist Party of China immediately issued a red-head document ordering emergency blockades across the country. Let the epidemic be controlled in time. The second is to concentrate efforts on major events. When the epidemic first broke out, the prevention and control of the epidemic faced problems of wide scope, large population, and complicated affairs. This required the party and the government to make overall plans. The whole country can quickly clarify the main points and nodes of the task, and concentrate efforts to effectively overcome the epidemic. The third is to insist on putting the people at the center. Since the outbreak of the epidemic, the Communist Party of China and the Chinese government have always put people's safety first, always uphold the purpose of people first and life first, and always put the lives and interests of the people first. From the top to the next level of the party organization to upload and issue, and the implementation is strong; batches of outstanding CCP members charge on the front line of the war epidemic, share the difficulties with the people and escort the people. The new crown epidemic is a large-scale public crisis event. In this crisis, China has demonstrated the responsibility and responsibility of a major country with practical actions. In the event of an epidemic, the Chinese government has a keen awareness of risks, breaks normal management, and implements grid governance; NGOs have significant influence, and their practical effectiveness under the epidemic has been fully utilized.

All of the above demonstrate the superiority of the socialist system with Chinese characteristics. Next, this article will elaborate on the superiority of the socialist system with Chinese characteristics under the new crown epidemic.

2. Centralized and Unified Leadership of the Party is the biggest Advantages of the Socialist System with Chinese Characteristics

At the beginning of the New Year, COVID - 19 swept the world. In the face of COVID - 19, China first found and made active and effective prevention and control measures. In the face of the epidemic test, the CPC led the whole people to overcome COVID - 19, which once again demonstrated Chinese wisdom and China's plan to the world, highlighting the superiority of socialism with distinctive characteristics.

2.1. The CPC Central Committee Commands the Overall Role

General Secretary Xi Jinping clearly pointed out that "the most essential feature of socialism with Chinese characteristics is the leadership of the Communist Party of China, and the greatest advantage of the socialist system with Chinese characteristics is the party's centralized and unified leadership." Once the epidemic was discovered, the Central Committee of the Communist Party of China attached great importance to it, immediately coordinated all parties, stepped up the deployment of epidemic prevention and control, ordered and banned the epidemic from the central to the local, and made all-round arrangements for all provinces, autonomous regions, municipalities and special administrative regions under the epidemic from an overall perspective to promote epidemic prevention. The control work was carried out smoothly and closely, and news of the fight against the epidemic spread frequently.

In the work of epidemic prevention and control, General Secretary Xi Jinping clearly pointed out: "Faced with the serious situation of the rapid spread of pneumonia caused by new coronavirus infection, the centralized and unified leadership of the Party Central Committee must be strengthened." After the outbreak, the Party Central Committee immediately established a headed by Comrade Xi Jinping. The epidemic working group of the People's Republic of China directly takes the overall situation of the epidemic work and coordinates all parties to actively implement the epidemic prevention and control plan. The Standing Committee of the Political Bureau of the Central Committee convened four meetings in one month for epidemic prevention and control work, and through the feedback of local epidemic infection data to strengthen the research and demonstration of decision-making, and promote the scientific nature of decision-making under the epidemic work. The wise decision and foresight of the Party Central Committee have achieved significant results in the prevention and control of the epidemic.

2.2. The role of the Party Organization as a Battle Fortress

In the fight against the epidemic, General Secretary Xi Jinping has repeatedly emphasized that “Party organizations at all levels must earnestly fulfill their leadership responsibilities, especially the implementation of their responsibilities, and implement the various decisions and deployments of the Party Central Committee. The front line of the struggle is flying high.” The party organization is a strong cornerstone for achieving significant results in epidemic prevention and control.

The new crown epidemic has allowed party organizations at all levels to give full play to the advantages of the grassroots social governance system under the leadership of the party. In the prevention and control of the new crown epidemic, the party organization uploaded and issued instructions and implemented forcefully, using the “one-shot penetration” working method to reach the grassroots communities, and accurately and efficiently convey the party’s policies to the grassroots people, so that the grassroots people in China can eat. “Reassuring pills” resolved the grassroots disputes from the source and harmonized the tense social relations during the epidemic prevention and control. The timely and effective prevention and control of the epidemic has vividly demonstrated the party organization's ability to implement and organize and mobilize, and give full play to the role of grassroots party organizations as a battle fortress.

2.3. Vanguard and Exemplary Role of Party Members

From the outbreak of the epidemic to the overcoming of difficulties to the orderly restoration of production and life, the Chinese government has always unswervingly upheld the leadership of the Communist Party of China. As General Secretary Xi Jinping said, “Party, government, military, and civilian studies, east, west, north, south, and north, the party leads everything and is the highest political leadership force.” Under the leadership of the Communist Party of China, party members and cadres have taken the lead and actively participated in the fight against the epidemic.

At the critical moment of the spread of the epidemic, ordinary people are isolated at home, but doctors and nurses are the greatest retrogrades, rushing to the forefront of the fight against the epidemic. Academician Zhong Nanshan, as an excellent Communist Party member and a doctor who rescues the wounded, he will not hesitate to go retrograde and plunge into the front line of the fight against the epidemic when the epidemic comes, demonstrating the high spirit of filial piety and sincerity of doctors. On the main battlefield in Wuhan to fight the epidemic, there is such a person who is glowing with party spirit. He is Zhang Dingyu, the director of Wuhan Jinyintan Hospital. Although he is sickened, he is still fighting on the front line of the epidemic, and he has never retreated. In the field of vaccine research and development, Academician Chen Wei faced the virus, escorted life, and fulfilled her mission. She led her scientific research team to overcome the vaccine problem and successfully developed a new crown vaccine.

Under the leadership of the Communist Party of China, many outstanding Communist Party members have emerged in the face of the epidemic. They are in danger and are ordered to rush to the front line or guard at the grassroots level. Under the strong leadership of the Communist Party of China, the people of all ethnic groups across the country worked together to fight a beautiful battle against the epidemic.

It can be seen that the Communist Party of China is not only the designer and executor of the socialist system with Chinese characteristics, but also the key and core force to give play to the advantages of the socialist system with Chinese characteristics. The great practice of the fight against the epidemic has once again proved that the extremely strong leadership of the Communist Party of China is the most reliable backbone of the Chinese people when storms strike. Practice in the fight against the epidemic has proved that the epidemic is not terrible. As long as we adhere to the leadership of the party and under the deployment of the Chinese Communist Party, we will surely be able to overcome the epidemic and calmly deal with various challenges.

3. Concentrating Efforts on Major Events is a Concentrated Expression of the Superiority of the Socialist System with Chinese Characteristics

In the face of the epidemic test, the Chinese people are committed and united, and the system advantages of “adhering to a game of chess across the country, mobilizing the polarities of all parties, and focusing on major tasks” are fully demonstrated. In the “epidemic” of the epidemic prevention and control war, the concentration of efforts to do major tasks is manifested in both social mobilization capabilities and scientific research capabilities.

Under the epidemic prevention and control, the Chinese government has demonstrated extensive social mobilization and organizational capabilities. The government under the leadership of the Communist Party of China adheres to the principle of democratic centralism to fundamentally ensure the rapid and efficient decision-making under the epidemic prevention and control. State-owned enterprises have played a mainstay role in all stages of epidemic prevention and control, and are outstanding representatives of social mobilization. Public resources are often limited, especially in the case of public crises, limited resources appear to be even more tense. State-owned enterprises actively responded to the call of the Party Central Committee to change their production methods, vigorously promote the production of anti-epidemic materials, and effectively guarantee the front-line material supply chain for prevention and control. At the beginning of the epidemic, the crisis broke out suddenly and resources were limited. The main battlefield in Wuhan was a situation where people were waiting for beds. After extensive social mobilization by the Central Committee of the Communist Party of China, with the cooperation of major enterprises and NGOs, it took ten days to build a hospital. The situation of people waiting for the bed has been reversed, and the beneficial transformation of the bed and others has been realized. Use efficient social mobilization capabilities to demonstrate China’s power and speed, and use actions to demonstrate China’s ability to concentrate its efforts on major events.

The sudden new crown epidemic has caused the vast majority of Chinese medical staff to face challenges from scientific research capabilities. Once the new crown epidemic broke out, China immediately attached great importance to it. It established a scientific and technological research team to organize clinical, infectious prevention, and respiratory sciences to jointly form a scientific research team for the epidemic. The three-line coordination and linkage of scientific research, clinical treatment, and infection prevention and control, research and prevention The three-pronged approach is closely coordinated, and major results have been achieved in scientific research, treatment, prevention and control. This is an important manifestation of the concentration of forces in the medical science field to do major tasks under epidemic prevention and control. The epidemic has caused frequent and in-depth exchanges between various disciplines in the medical field, and various emerging technologies such as big data and cloud computing have been used to increase the speed of epidemic consultations, and reduce the workload of doctors' mechanical work, so as to better coordinate medical technology forces to fight the "epidemic".

The increase in social mobilization and the progress in scientific research in the prevention and control of the epidemic have shown that concentrating on major tasks is the superiority of the socialist system with Chinese characteristics.

4. Adhering to the People-Centered Approach is a Significant Advantage of the Socialist System with Chinese Characteristics

The people being the masters of the country is the essence and core of the socialist system with Chinese characteristics, and the people have always been the biggest beneficiaries of the socialist system with Chinese characteristics. During a state visit to Italy, Xi Jinping said: "I will have no self and will live up to the people." When the epidemic broke out, General Secretary Xi Jinping personally deployed and directed the courage to carry heavy burdens, always putting the safety and health of the people first.

4.1. Always Adhere to the Concept of People First

Since the outbreak of the new crown epidemic, the Central Committee of the Communist Party of China has always put people's safety first, and the concept of people first and life first has always been implemented in the prevention and control of the epidemic. On October 12, the People's Daily issued a news report that Qingdao had found 6 local cases, and immediately started full-staff surveillance. On October 15, Qingdao has completed more than 8 million tests, shocking Chinese and foreign media. CCTV News released an article saying: "In the face of the epidemic, our principle is that the people are supreme and life is supreme. If a country has experience, ability, and courage, the people will have determination, help each other, work together, and naturally be able to do the best possible. Keep the epidemic to a minimum."

From the outbreak of the epidemic to the current stage of epidemic prevention and control, China has always adhered to the people-centered development concept and has always adhered to the original aspiration of the Communist Party-to seek happiness for the Chinese people and seek rejuvenation for the Chinese nation. After the outbreak, from the centenarians to the children waiting to be fed, the Chinese government never abandons or abandons any patients with new coronary pneumonia, and treats them equally, so that every patient has been treated in a timely manner. China under the socialist system has always firmly believed that the people are the backbone of social development, the protectors and beneficiaries of the socialist system.

4.2. Closely Unite the People

Coming from the masses and going to the masses has always been the good style and action guide of the Chinese Communist Party. In the battle against the epidemic, our party has closely united the people and widely mobilized the people to participate in group prevention and control, forming a strong joint force and laying a solid foundation for winning the battle against the epidemic.

At present, my country's new crown epidemic prevention and control has achieved major strategic results, but the international epidemic situation is still spreading seriously, and foreign countries are facing slow epidemic prevention and control, and the foreign epidemic situation is still severe; therefore, we should strengthen control and protect the epidemic prevention achieved with great efforts. Control results. We should continue to play the leading role of the people and rely on the people to win the battle against the epidemic. Among the people, we must regularly publicize the current situation of the epidemic at home and abroad, guide the people to establish a correct awareness of epidemic prevention and control, and integrate epidemic prevention and control into the normal life of the people. In response to the problems exposed by the masses under the epidemic prevention and control, promptly correct and improve them; warn the masses to do home protection, not to move across borders, across provinces and cities if necessary, to reduce eating out, gatherings, and not to carry out large-scale concentrated cultural and sports activities.

5. Conclusions

“Difficulties and hardships, the jade ruined in success”. The new crown epidemic achieved a phased victory, which confirmed the superiority of the socialist system with Chinese characteristics with actions. In the new crown pneumonia epidemic, the party led the people to transform the advantages of the socialist system into the effectiveness of national governance. It is clear that the Communist Party of China is the biggest advantage of socialism with Chinese characteristics, and that people-centeredness is a significant advantage of socialism with Chinese characteristics. China has also demonstrated its ability to concentrate its efforts on major tasks during the epidemic. The Communist Party of China will continue to adhere to its own development, improve its scientific decision-making capabilities, continuously consolidate and improve the socialist system with Chinese characteristics, and improve the modernization of its governance system and governance capabilities.
