The whole society has shown a strong cohesion and centripetal force in strengthening the cultural construction. Taking the construction of a beautiful China as the main goal of ecological civilization construction, we pay close attention to the construction of ecological civilization from many aspects, and make remarkable achievements in strengthening the ecological environment protection and realizing the goal of "double carbon".

In the maintenance of national security, not only the national defense strength and the people's army in quality, technology, organization and management ability has significantly improved, in response to the worldwide political, economic, ideology and risks and challenges of nature, in ensuring national security laid a solid foundation, to maintain the stability of national social stability has played an important role in [3]. In terms of strict party self-governance, To investigate and punish the problem of “four winds” and violate the spirit of the eight-point regulation as the main basis for the whole party team to fight corruption and build a clean government, To thoroughly investigate and punish the corruption of party members and cadres in their various work, While actively and severely investigating and punishing all kinds of corruption, Strengthen publicity and management within the Party, Taking work style construction as the main content of publicity and party building work, Promote the Party to actively carry out self-revolution in the course of development, To consolidate the image of the Party among the people, Consolidate the relationship between the Party and the masses, While ensuring the stronger cohesion and unity of the Party itself, Lay a good foundation for party members and cadres to carry out their work, In the process of the Party's active self-revolution, Actively play the exemplary role of party members and cadres in leading an example, To drive social revolution and development through the Party's self-revolution, To promote social development to provide a more powerful dynamic support.
